A PUBLICATION OF JEWISH SENIOR SERVICES THE JEWISH HOME • VOLUME 107 • WINTER 2022

Two Years on a Roller Coaster is Easier with a Great Nursing Team

The last two years have reminded us all of the importance of nursing, caregivers and all our support teams, as we are entrusted to care for the loved ones of so many families. The Jewish Home was founded nearly 50 years ago to care for the frail elderly, and we have had a commitment to our Mission for nearly five decades. Throughout the pandemic, there are countless examples of their tireless efforts to care for those in our trust. They implement and oversee physicians' orders for medications and treatments; they hold Residents' hands when they are in pain or need someone to talk to; they all offer compassion, which is the ultimate gift of caregivers - to feel others' pain and to offer support.

We are blessed to have so many dedicated caregivers and would like to take this time to THANK them all, not only for their work in recent times, but always. You are truly HEROES and make a difference in the lives of so many people.

Jewish Senior Services is also fortunate to have a wonderful leadership team, and as announced in late January, these are the individuals who oversee our long-term care services.

With pleasure we announce that Stacey Bardin, RN has been appointed as the permanent Director of Nursing for Jewish Senior Services. Since Erena Fitzgerald retired, Stacey has been the Interim Director of Nursing, demonstrating strong leadership during the pandemic and the Annual Survey. Stacey has 15+ years of experience in Nursing Leadership positions prior to joining JSS in March 2020. Stacey recently earned her Master's degree in Nursing Management/Leadership from The University of Hartford.

Additionally, Michelle Boccanfuso, RN has been appointed as the Assistant Director of Nursing. Michelle has 10+ years of Nursing Management experience, most recently as Director of Nursing at Genesis Health Care. Since joining JSS, Michelle has been the Infection Preventionist and has been key in supporting our COVID response and the Annual Survey. Michelle has recently earned her BS, Nursing.

Completing the nursing team above are Guides Allison Shortell, RN - 1st floor, Nancy Meliso, RN - 2nd floor, Lorina Pettway, RN - 3rd floor, and Justine Labate, RN - 4th floor. Each has a passion and commitment to our beloved Residents and clients, and commitment to long-term care.

Navigating the Maze of Aging Services

"I'm worried about my mother. I live out of town, and I am not sure she is making it to her doctor's appointments and able to follow-up with all the recommendations."

"My husband has fallen in our home several times and I am worried that he will get injured."

"My dad still pays all his bills, but recently there was a large error, and his account was overdrawn."

"My mother lives alone in a big house that she can't take care of anymore. She is isolated and doesn't seem to be taking care of herself as well as she used to."

As we age, our needs change. Whether planning ahead or dealing with unexpected changes in health, housing or relationships, older adults and their family members often find themselves in unfamiliar territory when navigating the complex landscape of the healthcare system and the community resources available to them.

Chairperson and President's Remarks

Alan Phillips

While it is unlikely that any of us would have predicted the impact of another wave of the pandemic and the Omicron variant when we wrote the last issue of Chai Lights, it is equally clear that we have all been touched by this unfortunate series of events. From mid-December through the month of January, we all experienced COVID-19 cases with our families and friends, and importantly our beloved Residents, clients and staff. Fortunately, the impact was not nearly as severe thanks to our incredibly dedicated staff, the availability and reliability of rapid testing, better treatments, and the protection of the vaccination and booster programs. Each day things continue to improve. Many thanks to everyone involved in caring for our loved ones.

Each year we raise funds for our Residents, clients and staff through various means. The Women's Auxiliary and Men's Club have been generous over so many years and continue to support our activities thanks to their events which are well attended, well run, and always enjoyable! The Annual Campaign provides over $300,000 each year which allows us to provide enhanced Resident Life, Pastoral Care and other resources above and beyond what is funded through our reimbursement system. As described in Andrew's January 14 Update #104, 137 families donated $22,350 to the Employee Holiday Fund which allows us to provide Target Gift Cards to everyone, a Holiday Staff Party, and free meals for staff.

We have also started a new fundraising campaign to help us meet our strategic goals, which is called Vision 2031 Fund for the Future. Nearly $5M has already been committed through our Board of Directors and other friends of Jewish Senior Services. We are working on some very exciting plans that we hope to share with you in the next issue of Chai Lights. In the interim, if you would like to know more about the Fund for the Future, please contact Dina Fleischmann, Major Gifts Officer at (203) 365-6406 or dfleischmann@jseniors.org.

Andrew H. Banoff

Finally, we have a smaller project directed at upgrades for the Main Celebration Courtyard, including additional Jerusalem Stone, flooring and seating upgrades, and some additional shade areas. If you are interested in that project, please also contact Dina.

As always, thank you for all that you do!

Fall Gala

The 2021 Fall Gala was a huge success! Over 170 members of the community came together, either in person or virtually, at The Patterson Club in Fairfield in support of Jewish Senior Services. The evening of Wednesday, October 20 was spectacular as we celebrated the achievements of Emil Meshberg and Linda Lazinger.

Co-chaired by Cindy Epstein and Vivian Epstein, the event was truly a night to remember. Alan Phillips, Chairperson of Jewish Senior Services, paid tribute to Emil Meshberg for being a leader and dedicated member of the community and presented him with the Arthur and Gladys Lunin Humanitarian Award. Jon August, Vice Chairperson of Jewish Senior Services, presented the Louis Lotstein Award for Distinguished Service, to Linda Lazinger for her volunteer work at Jewish Senior Services. Guests were entertained by the comical and engaging magic of Bill Herz, bid on great items at the silent auction, read the beautiful commemorative journal and appreciated the gorgeous décor by Ruth Ridgeway Designs. $209,000 was raised to support many important programs for the Residents of Jewish Senior Services with $24,000 earmarked for a Technology for the Future fund.

From Our Grasmere Adult Day Program Families

"I brought my mother to the adult day program so that while I'm at work, I know that she is safe and stimulated through fun activities, peer interaction and daily exercise. The staff is friendly and professional. Mom enjoys the experience!"
-D.K.

"Grasmere on Park Adult Day Program has been essential for the structure of living and having a loved one with memory issues. The aides are attentive, engaging and always excited to see my mother. My mother has developed a bond with the staff and feels safe. This is endearing considering her general loss of familiarity. The program has provided my mom a sense of normalcy during these unprecedented times in regard to her memory function. From a family perspective it is comforting to know she is safe and engaged, with knowledgeable people who understand her needs. I have recommended, and continue to recommend, the adult day program to others. Apply sooner rather than later."

-Y.B.

Grasmere on Park Adult Day is a medically supervised program that meets the needs of adults with cognitive and physical challenges in a happy and supportive setting. It allows adults who live at home to connect with peers and stay active under nurse supervision.

Family Portrait - Carole Rubin

Eighty-seven years (and counting) of friendships, former students, four children, 13 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. Eighty-seven years of turning strangers into friends. This is Carole Diamond Rubin, aka Savta Carole.

From the moment Carole became a grandmother, she became Savta Carole to everyone, family and friends alike. "It's not a nickname, it's who she is. Being everyone's grandma has fit her well. Eventually she became Savta to all her beloved B'nai Torah nursery school kids, many of whom remain in touch with her today," says Stephen, her oldest son. "My mother was an amazing educator and made an incredible impression on everyone she touched. But her real pride and joy has always been her "generations"—her children, grandchildren and now her great grandchildren."

If you know Carole, then you are probably up to date on her generations. Savta loves nothing more than to share about all of them. So, it is only fitting to ask the grandkids to give you a glimpse into their Savta Carole.

Yoni (Stephen's son) has a special relationship with Savta, and as the first-born grandchild, can do no wrong in her eyes. "Savta has always been one of the most important people in my life—from our sleepovers to a toy-filled basement. But the most impactful trait of Savta's is her impact on the community. When I meet people from the Greater Fairfield area throughout my travels, everyone knows Savta and describe her as a special ray of sunlight in their lives. There was never a shortage of visitors at Barry Scott Drive; from members of Congregation Beth El stopping by to wish her good luck on an aliyah, or her former students stopping by with a warm cooked meal. My Savta is my inspiration."

Racheli (Stephen's daughter) admires Savta's accomplishments. She raised four kids and 13 grandchildren, educated hundreds, visited friends and volunteered at The Jewish Home and so much more. Racheli reminisces, "I can remember the amazing visits in Connecticut that included Rummikub, Broadway shows and deli sandwiches at the JCC. We've shared many bellyaching fits of laughter and painful tears of loss. But the thing that stays with me the most is the way she treats everyone with kindness; from the postman to the pharmacist, everyone was her friend."

Sara (Richard's daughter) struggled to come up with one story that reflects her relationship with Savta. "Living with Savta really strengthened our relationship. She is a great listener who always made time for a conversation. But the main thing I loved doing with Savta was hopping on Metro North to go to see Broadway shows together. Those trips stand out; they were amazing and the best way to spend my birthday with her!"

Rebecca (Susan's daughter) joins in the chorus of Broadway memories. "Some of my favorite times with Savta were our dinner and Broadway dates once I moved to New York. Seeing the Color Purple together was particularly special (even when she sang along with Cynthia Erivo). And if we were just doing dinner, she'd always order chamomile tea after the food so that we could spend more time together."

Shai (Ellen's daughter) has spent intense times with Savta when she would visit in Israel (for long stretches of time). "Carole Rubin is my Savta and gosh what a crazy yet amazing one she is. As a child she would come visit us often and I would have the most ridiculous import requests: Poland Spring bottled water, macaroni and cheese, Hebrew National hot dogs, clothes, shoes, books, toys. You name it and Savta Carole would gladly schlep it. She would do anything for me: Drive anywhere, watch any movie, play any game, run a personal import business, spend countless hours on the phone when I couldn't fall asleep."

Shai captures her grandmother in this one final sentence. "My Savta is the epitome of love. We may disagree, we may argue or get upset with one another, but I know, no matter what, she loves me unconditionally and I love her just as much in return."
